Dear Sir,
 I have been a long time waiting for you to come to see me. I am very glad to hear that you are well and hope you will continue to be so.
 I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
 J. B.

Hope we get in the same gym good!
the class next year. Tumbling!

Administrators Use Disciplinary, Advisory Policy To Further School

Principal Don Johnson evades a busy schedule of numerous responsibilities to pose for the LANTERN. Carrying through with his program, Mr. Johnson faces problems with an optimistic outlook.

"... and you forgot to have your mother write an excuse, and she doesn't like phone calls during Copper Kettle!" Miss Eleanor Doersam, Assistant Principal, has heard them all.

The Board of Education may have established the policies by which a school is run but the success is dependent upon its administrative staff. Mr. Johnson, Mr. Rousseau, and Miss Doersam worked in co-ordination to follow through not only with the Board's demands but with the demands of the students. Requiring experience and understanding, they catered to teachers as well as students.

Knowing Eastern well because he coached wrestling for ten years and then became assistant principal for five, Mr. Johnson finished his third year as principal. The past year's schedule required a full days work. Containing such things as visiting classrooms, organizing teacher's meetings, and hiring personnel, Mr. Johnson still had time to reach students personally.

Mr. Rousseau and Miss Doersam also have definite activities to regulate. Attendance occupies most of Mr. Rousseau's day but he also presides over all student council meetings to lead students in appropriate decisions. Miss Doersam was a counselor and gym instructor before her first year as assistant principal or Dean of Girls. Her duties follow the social events such as clubs and honor society. Permits to leave the building are issued by her also.

Good news DOES come through Mr. Rousseau's doorway. The delight on his face comes from Waldo Slapnovich's astounding news: "Mr. Rousseau, I didn't get in trouble today in ANY of my classes!"

The secretaries and custodians have kept Eastern running smoothly and have kept it clean. Connecting Eastern with the business world, the secretaries assisted the principals in typing minutes and announcements, filing all records, and turning the main office into a miscellaneous information center. The custodians, on the other hand, performed the manual duties. They helped teachers by washing blackboards, emptying waste baskets, replacing light bulbs by the thousands, and delivering the ordered supplies. Working behind the scenes, they were indispensable although inconspicuous.

A secretary's job is never done! However, the strain of the long day is not present on Mrs. Helen Parks' face as she smilingly prepares to put loose ends together and head for home.

Think you have it bad coming to school during the day, Ken Montague, George Clark, Herald Grennel, Charles Browner, Bob Soule, Alan Worth, Dick Lintz, Jack Baker, Dick Schneller, and Jerry Kinney, come every evening to clean the school for the next day.

Will it crumble or hold together long enough for a student's munch? Harriett Searles and Kevin Walker have to be philosopher to hold up under emergencies arising in the cafeteria's bakery.

Carefully checking the list of absentees, Mrs. Smith completes only one of many duties that must be taken care of during the hectic day.

Mrs. Arnell knows the importance of keeping books on the shelves, so that they may be immediately taken out again. Here she is getting them ready for a student to shelve.

MRS. LELA ARNELL

English meant more to students this year than just basic reading, grammar, and spelling. Those interested in a business course selected effective business English which specified their particular needs. Others, whose occupation will not be centered around English, studied Basic or General English. Whether for college or secretarial knowledge, courses in literature and composition were taken. During these courses, many students for the first time understood Shakespeare or the complications in grammar the English grammar holds.

With the stress being put more and more on reports and projects, students needed information that was not presented in their text books. For this reason an excellent school library was appreciated.

Constantly on hand, Mrs. Arnell and Miss French with student workers, assisted in not only locating, but selecting helpful materials.

The magazines, that came in weekly and monthly were an important resource in research papers. Four hundred and sixty four new books floated in and out of Eastern's Library along with the old ones, as students worked on term papers, book reports, and just reading for pleasure.

ALM, Audio-Lingual Materials, invaded Miss Ferguson's and Mrs. Norton's French classes, Mr. Lockhart's Spanish classes, and Mrs. McFeeters' German classes this year. The new books, which contained little English, were primarily composed of dialogues, stories, and basic sentences to promote conversation and reading skills. Grammar was taught as it occurred in the different chapters. Tapes, provided in the Language Laboratory, aided students in pronunciation. ALM has proved successful in its first year at Eastern.

Mrs. Ovenhouse's typewriter was a "main attraction" in the Russian classes this year. What is so special about a typewriter? This one types Russian. Mrs. Ovenhouse not only entertained with her typing but with an account of Russian life from her trip to Russia this past summer. Students found Russian to be a very interesting class this year.

Mrs. Walsh patiently taught conjugation of verbs and declension of nouns in Latin classes this year. Her classes not only studied Latin but was a necessity for anyone studying English grammar. Many English words have Latin roots and therefore a Latin student can understand them more thoroughly. So Mrs. Walsh has been serving double time in her classes.

The social studies teachers presented this traditional subject in a more meaningful and useful way this year. Geography, history, and government classes used current events as practical applications of their studies. Bridging the gap between knowledge and use, these courses stressed creative and original projects. Maps, reports, pictures or other talents such as sewing, wood carving or sculpturing of geographical features or prominent figures were established in the gradebook as well as assignments. Some history classes read and discussed court cases. Then they compared their decisions with the actual supreme court decisions to see how well they interpreted the constitution. In class, the students were stimulated by more specific events while the general information was acquired by either outside or textbook reading. Whether a field trip or editorial occupied a student, the routine of social studies was transformed into individual thought development as different phases were viewed.

The science department includes biology, chemistry, and physics. Biology, the study of all living things, stimulated students with the hypotheses of primitive life which were followed through the course. Then advanced biology brought depth and detail to the discoveries made during the first year. To complete a science minor, many students elected chemistry, which this year, dealt with laboratory analysis. The class, centered around the laboratory, became aware of the facts through sight and smell instead of through reading as in the previous years. Physics, a technical course, relates math with science. Trigonometry and geometry are applied extensively to visualize the answers to force problems. All science classes urged observation of man and nature and therefore offered laboratory work for stimulation.

The mathematics courses offered at Eastern range from algebra, geometry, and trigonometry to general and business math. Affecting many surprised Algebra 3 students, a change to trigonometry replaced Algebra 4 with trigonometry in the second semester. Algebra 4 was then moved up one semester and will be taken with Analytical Geometry. This change will be completed next year when new books will accompany the courses.

Learning the background which will support them through future math, students started with algebra. All other courses are basically algebra with practical applications as in trigonometry or involve algebra to show relations as in geometry.

MR. JOHN MOORE
Music

Taking music, either instrumental or vocal, proves to be demanding for both teachers and students. During class, the students are organized and grouped according to their ability. They elect either concert choir, mixed chorus, or glee clubs to exercise their talents. These vocal groups are exposed to spirituals as well as modern and foreign songs. Striving together successfully, the combined talents of all classes entertain students during assemblies and the public through an operetta. The instrumental classes, band and orchestra, presented concerts to show their achievement to parents and students. Marching in parades and at games, they also accompanied the vocal music classes. Another interesting music class was music theory. It offered advanced music composition and development to capable students.

Forming an assembly line, Maria Endara feeds paper, Al Huston prints, Ron Northrup reviews as Donna Kowatch and Mrs. Carroway put the 1966 calendar together.

and other members of the choir as they prepare for an upcoming concert to be given in an assembly.

Art classes are helpful not only to those who will make art their occupation but to those who will need it indirectly also. The commercial art class dealt with making things for use. Their major project turned out to be a decorative calendar by which they gained technical experience. But becoming a beautician or fashion expert requires the creative use of your hands and eyes. These students learned about the history of art as well as color schemes. Art trained them to observe and imitate nature. To get different effects with textures, they collected egg shells and twigs for abstracts. Frequently, still lifes and portraits were displayed in the foyer and throughout the building. On the third floor, ashtrays decorated the showcase and made some students proud of their work.

Business Department Provides Student With Up-to-Date Knowledge

Business Education students are taught the many facets of the business world. Typing, bookkeeping, accounting, stenography, and data processing train them for the future. Recently, a course in business machines was established to give students a more competent education for the automating world. These students will be able to hold jobs such as clerks, secretaries, or bookkeepers or enter a business college for more demanding positions. Taking this course enables the students to participate in the school's business management. This includes clerks for G.O. and LANTERN collections, office workers, and assistants to business teachers.

Co-op, Cooperative Work Training, is a program for the working senior. It provides actual job experience while helping to earn that extra money. The students go to school for a half day and work the other half. They receive their grade from their employer. Eastern supports these students by helping to find them jobs in school, medical, and other business offices, and in stores. Eastern advisors realize the need for job training and experience and have been indispensable to these working seniors.

Occupational Education is a work-training program that places great emphasis on social and vocational competencies. In its twelve years, it has developed fifty work stations. Sixty-five students worked indiligently this year. Students in this program were given basic academic courses in conjunction with job training and successful work experience.

In this unique program, the graduation requirements included approximate full-time employment for seniors. Ten of the seventeen that graduated this year took a related occupational guidance course offered for credit in evening school.

Jack Vealey, a speech correctionist and hearing consultant, was available twice each week as needed. Also Mrs. Anderson, a registered nurse at Sparrow Hospital, Came one hour a day to teach a Red Cross Home Nursing course.

Vocational Education involves the students of Sexton and Everett as well as Eastern. These boys are taught occupational trades for two years, averaging three hours a day. Determining the success of the student, a high aptitude is basic in the fields of mechanics, drafting, wood working, or printing. In the school shop, the classes did the necessary printing for our school. The students also completed projects of wood which may be placed in their home after varnishing. Placed on co-op, some boys restricted their learning to a specific metal trade or drafting field which usually becomes their job after graduating.

The cafeteria, like Food Services and also Home Economics, ably provided the students of Eastern High School with delicious foods all through the 1965-66 school year. They used the limited amount of money which they recieved from the government to supply the students with well balanced meals everyday. The Food Services department was mainly concerned with teaching the students to serve and work with foods while Home Economics provided many girls with the knowledge to keep their homes in the future.

With Physical Education becoming a requirement for all students, Eastern divided a new system to keep the classes from getting repetitious. Separating the sophomores from the juniors and seniors made the studies more profitable. While the sophomores were introduced to the basics, the juniors and seniors learned advanced skills. Beginning with swimming, health, and track, the program varied to volleyball, tennis, archery, golf and other useful sports. All in all the gain from each was of equal importance because in teaching the different phases, the instructors tried to emphasize co-ordination.

Students, who took the Drivers Education course during school hours, had their days alternated between study hall, the DOT room, and first hand road experience. Being a beginner, the student learned vicariously in the DOT room where a movie presented situations encountered in everyday driving and required the students to put to use their common sense as well as their textbook understanding.

To encourage better knowledge of the modern car, the teachers assigned reports which gave detailed information that was not covered in class. With patience, courage, and humor, Mr. Clafin and Mr. Chapman were also strict to promote the seriousness of good drivers. Then as the students finished the course with tact to handle a standard shift, many were rewarded with a license.

Since the Water Show, sponsored annually by the Mermaid Club, is given late in the spring, Eastern's Lantern cannot include it in that school year's book. The 1965 Water Show, "Maids to Sea," of last spring was something special, nevertheless. Some phase of Disneyland was portrayed in every number of the show which was given at 8:00 on May 13 and May 14.

Routines from Fantasyland included a graceful Snowwhite number, followed by seven funny dwarfs. Pink elephants swam to "Baby Elephant Walk," performing ballet legs with heavy flippers. Six goldfish formed a triangular float and played "thread-the-needle" to the music of "Goldfinger." Wearing black costumes with bright orange lightning streaks, astronauts from Tomorrowland flipped over the diving board to start their routine. Adventureland serpents slid into the pool, proceeding a number done to "Yellow Bird." The alley cats from Main Street, Disneyland would have gladly eaten the yellow birds, but instead flouted the old superstition of cats not liking water in their swimming duet. From Frontiersland, a comical chase between the local sheriff and two bandits led to surface dives with first the sheriff checking the top and alternating with the bandits checking. Ultimately, the sheriff was shot and one partner double-crossed the other by shooting her and escaping with the bag of gold.

Who says American women are soft? Girls in Eastern's Girls' Athletic Association can well argue this with the participation in all aspects of their club's programs. Whether in swimming, basketball, badminton or volleyball, a large number of girls turned out for all. Junior and sophomore volleyball girls each captured city-wide championships. Tennis enthusiasts opened up a Tennis Club after spring vacation since many of the other sports were out of season. The Mermaid Club also livened up with the spring season in their show given May 18 and 19. Eastern basketball girls clashed with Sexton's earlier

Although the Girls' Athletic Association offered a wide range of activities separate from each other, the girls still did things as a whole. The fall style show, the Mother-Daughter Awards Banquet, the Mother-Daughter play night, canoe trip, the annual picnic and then finally the Awards Tea are the major events they did as a whole, not counting the happy laughter at the spill of a teammate and strong hugs, full of pride for a fellow winner.

Eastern Students Take to the Hills for Winter Sports and Relaxation

Attracting 124 members, Ski Club became this year's largest club at Eastern. Members held car washes and planned a paper drive to finance trips to such resorts as Ogemaw, near Westbranch, and Thunder Mountain. Officers for Ski Club were Anne Shewell, president; Kevin McCall, vice president; Bob Grounds, seargent-at-arms; Linda Grounds, secretary; and Mr. Larry Johnson, faculty advisor. Members were also expected to travel to Colorado during spring vacation to spend a week skiing in the mountains. We're glad to report that no members suffered any accidents.

Attracting many new members this year was Eastern's newly formed Ski Club. Even though students were faced with a long wait when signing up, 124 members registered.

Select Group of Rugged Athletes Promote Fellowship

Selling popcorn and cake at basketball games was only one activity which helped finance Varsity Club's annual canoe trip down the Au Sable River. Another activity which increased the treasury was the riotous basketball game between the cheating, unethical faculty members and the law-abiding Varsity Club members. This year a new activity was added. The rugged athletes of the Varsity Club challenged the Girls' Athletic Association in a game of volleyball. Although many projects were for financing the canoe trip, Varsity Club also sold editions of the Old Newsboy paper, a campaign sponsored by the State Journal. The profits were used to purchase shoes for needy children in the Lansing area. Activities flowed under the capable leadership of Jack McNutt, president; Dave Zuziak, vice president; Kim Eddie, secretary; and Don Belles, treasurer.

As usual, the basketball game between the Faculty and the Varsity Club turned into a mad scramble for the ball. Although the student participants tried every possible method to counteract the conniving administration, the Faculty defeated Varsity Club.

Radiant in her red formal, Jane Permoda accepted her crown, twelve dozen red roses and the title 1966 Homecoming Queen at the football game against Jackson Central, October 15. In the other halftime festivities, the parade of floats entered in the class float contest sponsored by Student Council circled Memorial Stadium. The Senior float, "Quaker Puffed Wheat" and the Sophomore float, "Cage 'Em" took seconds to the Junior float, "Beat 'Em." After the game, a triumphant Junior Class, a disheartened football team, and five relieved ladies joined other Eastern students for the Homecoming Dance in the Boy's Gym.

Student Council Takes Effective Action for School Improvement

Active Student Council members strive for many achievements for the student body and their school. The results of many heated debates were the undertaking of several projects, some of which were a new mural in the cafeteria, decorating the school during the Christmas season, sending petitions to the Board of Education concerning slippery stairways, flying an airplane over Sexton before the Eastern-Sexton football game, exchanging a victory trophy with Everett, aiding the installation of carpeting in the social room, and informing the public of the millage.

National Honor Society Pledges Outstanding Students at Eastern; Safety Council Aids in Furthering School Safety

This year's hard working Honor Society had a very successful year, filled with worthwhile projects. Perhaps the biggest project was their sponsoring of a Christmas door decorating contest. A tutoring service, posting of a bulletin board, alumni showcase and hosting of the Tri-school Honor Society meeting were other activities. Members also maintained a scrapbook of all of Eastern's historical events and posted the names of the Honor Roll students. Still others assisted in the vision testing program and introduced an orientation program for sophmores. Thirty six new members were initiated second semester by qualifying in citizenship, leadership, service and character. Second semester officers were Ken Taylor, president; Glen Stevenson, vice president; Karen Waterson, secretary; Craig Woodman, treasurer; and Miss Doersam, Advisor.

Nancy Hoyt, Lois Wedley, Karen Waterson, and Teresa Amstutz listen attentively as Carmella Olivett introduces the reading of "The Crucible."

Miss Aspgren and Gary Makries add the finishing touches to homeroom 3-22's entry in the door decorations contest.

Don Chipchase patiently waits his turn as Lynda Mitchell, Cheryl Banina, Jane Mowry, and Joyce Henry light candles at Honor Society Initiation.

Safety Council did much to promote better safety facilities. Petitions were circulated for improving the stairsteps and to have the traffic light working all the time in front of the school. Once again Safety Council filled milk cartons with sand and gave them to any student or teacher who so requested. Also, courtesy cards were printed up and any student who helped a person in trouble could leave a card. Early in the fall chairman Mike Hollandsworth presented Mr. Johnson with a National Safety Plaque. Mr. Clafin was faculty advisor of this fine group.

Eastern Political Club Has Something To Interest Everybody

Promoting international peace and understanding at Eastern was this year's Kappa Iota Club. In order to earn money for the club's annual trip to Hillsdale, where members represented Poland and Brundi in a mock United Nations meeting, members sold "Go Eastern" tags preceding football games and held a slave sale. Kappa Iota also sponsored the first Powder Puff queen of Eastern and offered their tentative services to those teachers requesting informative speakers on the United Nations.

Once the stories are written and the first copy is returned, journalists must catch all mistakes. By the looks on these discontented faces, the print shop has not corrected all the Easterner Staff wanted done. Storming down the stairs are Kathy Nestell, Mike Wolven, Mary Nell Lord, Sue Jean, Kim Eddie, Mic David, and Rose Headley.

Publishing a school paper every month is the job of seven students on the Easterner staff. Before a paper can be produced, however, a few basics in writing a story are taught, including attention capturing leads and the "six w's" of writing. For those who never had typing before, they learn quickly as deadlines near. Besides the journalism workbook and the experience of Mr. Potter, several students attended the M.S.U. Journalism Clinic in the fall to learn the how's of writing stories.

Once the prospective journalists know how to write up a story, blank minds for story ideas plague them. Searches in exchange papers, old Easterner issues and even walks down the hall inspire feature stories and editorials. But the most important element the journalism staff must have is open eyes. Awareness of club activities, sports events, and various class workers is the key to a better paper. Awareness of the general trend of student thinking led to the "Dear Aggie" column.

When the stories are typed up, sent down to the print shop, and returned, catching all the errors possible proves difficult since they hide so well on the print up, but stand out in red letters in the published paper. Pains-taking time is devoted to the counting out of headlines to fit the required space. Someone's sure to ask, "What's a four count verb for supercalifragilisticexpialadosous?" The dummy up and paste up are the last steps as a relieved Easterner staff relaxes, but the wheels are turning in thoughtful planning of the next issue.

Snidely Villain Chases Poor Nell

Dirty Work at the Crossroads or Tempted Tried and True, the first all school play, was presented this year under the direction of Miss Marilyn Steegstra. Student directors were Paula Borowiak and Chris Hall. The Three-act melodrama centers on Munro Murgatroyd the fiendish villain, played by Geof Ruonavaara, and Nellie Lovelace, the sweet-innocent-naive heroine, portrayed by Carol Killebrew. Honest Adam Oakheart (Dave Voges) deals mainly with horses in the livery stable, but his love for Millie is blackened by the notorious Ida Rhinegold (Sharon Baisel), Mookie Muggugins (Bob Adcock) is the comic hired help. The widow Lovelace (Rose Headley) is poisoned early in the play. Mrs. Asterbilt (Ann Shewell) dominates all around her, even Leonie (Millie Leak) her sweet, birdlike daughter. Fleurette, the French maid is portrayed by Anna Marie Love. The dirty work at the crossroads begins when the villain tries to marry Nellie for her property. Later Munro shows up to tie Adam to the tracks. But the day is saved by our dauntless hero, Adam.

Ida Rhinegold (Sharon Baisel) flutters her eyes admiringly in an attempt to allure honest Adam Oakheart.

Innocent Nellie (Carol Killebrew) pleads with the Widow Lovelace (Rose Headley) and honest, upright Adam Oakheart (Dave Voges) to listen to her confession.

After School Work Plus Shared Snacks Make Successful Yearbook

If ever an election was held for "Yearbook Least Likely To Succeed," THE LANTERN would win lying down. In fact, that is just what much of the staff was accused of this year—lying down. Slowed by inexperienced underclassmen and by reluctant "workers" who had to be replaced far along in the season, THE LANTERN had one of its slowest writings yet. Certainly, the emergency meetings and the facial expressions of Mr. Potter, faculty advisor, Maggie Wilczewski, editor, and Wayne Hastings, assistant editor at the "progress" of the yearbook would probably win "Most Unforgettable Experience of 1966." If it is any consolation to the frenzied minds and frayed nerves of yearbook underclassmen, they will probably produce a better LANTERN next year because of their experience this year.

Lantern Portrays High School Life and Activity in Nut Shell Form

Valorie Hill and Sharon Baisel have what they think is the fool-proof answer to incomplete underclass pages. Too bad Ann Burch is chosen for placard girl.

Nancy Hawkins consults the picture again as other senior section workers, Merna Dyer, Linda Mitchell, and Joyce Dean debate the supposed name.

Negatives can drive anyone batty, but ones of pep assemblies more so than others. JoAnne Hickey imagines them as cards, but Gail Stardevant insists they are long strips of flypaper.

Spaniards, Germans Daily Repeat "Buenos Dias," "Guten Tag"

Walter French's Spanish teacher, Mr. Ruffin applauds the skill with which two junior high students get under the limbo stick, but modesta Luna and Delia Lozano only lower it for another test of patience and endurance in the second round.

A travel poster and Paula Boro-wiak's smile capture the spirit of Germany as Rose Headley, Jackie Gate-wood, and Tom Ferris heartily agree.

This year's Spanish Club activities have been a list of firsts. Mr. Lockhart's Spanish Club joined with other clubs in the first all-school Spanish Christmas Fiesta, celebrated on December 16 at Everett. Eastern contributed a very large and beautiful pinata and the dance group called "La Docena" which was organized by Mr. Lockhart. Later on January 6, the Spanish Club now called "Alianza de Amigos" or "Alliance of Friends" gave the first Spanish food fiesta ever given at Eastern. Over 400 people attended and the money received from here, plus that earned from various bake sales went for material for traditional Spanish costumes for the dancers and for a $50 scholarship to a prospective student of Spanish in June 1966. The first Pan American Day program's proceeds will finance a student trip to Mexico next summer. A car wash in April financed the annual banquet in May. The first "challenge" was sent to the Spanish clubs of Everett and Sexton for games in volleyball and softball.

Under their new club advisor, Mrs. McFeeters; the German Club decided to go to Frankfurt, Michigan for the annual German festival in the spring instead of the traditional canoe trip down the Au Sable River. Once a year the little town goes German with colorful parades and other festivities, complete with lederhosen, lieder and stein. Mr. William Humphrey, German teacher at C. W. Otto Junior High School, spoke earlier in the year to the group on his trips to Germany and showed slides, explaining the people, the customs and the land. Several bake sales of German foods and a paper drive financed the club's activities with each student participating receiving points toward a German pin awarded the end of the year. An East-West panel discussion and a Deutschland Christmas party were other highlights of the year for German students.

"Deutschland, Deutschland uber alles!" commands Tom Ferris in the midst of a pantomime game. German Club members who continue the mimics (counter-clock-wise) are Rose Headley, Tom Smalley, Dave Voges, Glenna Green, Fernando Reyes, Nancy Hawkins, Jackie Tatosian, and Jackie Gatewood. Linda Lemon turns from the confusion.

The Russian Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Ovenhouse, opened up their club this year to all students interested in Russia, not just those taking the language. Meetings held at the club advisor's house taught much of Russia itself since Ukrainian Mrs. Ovenhouse toured the United Soviet Socialist Republic recently. A spring picnic with Russian dishes acquainted students with the country's foods. Learning further of Russian customs and foods, Russian Club members planned an elaborate Russian Banquet with homemade costumes. After an all Russian meal, folk singing and dancing, plus a short skit performed by the second year Russian students, ended an active year for Russian interested Easterners.

Language Clubs Give Insight to Cultures Otherwise Unknown

Glen Stevenson and Carmella Olivett pause to admire a plaster-of-paris cast of Venus.

"For a servant you sure aren't very humble!" accuses Barb Heavy of Dave Kienholz as he pours Glen Stevenson's coffee. Other officers Nancy Reese, Jerry Yanz, Roger Landon, Valorie Hill, remember when they did the service last year.

By participating in this type of study, students learn not only the language of a country but also the customs, history and geography. During the year each club participates in a multitude of activities including all-language-club meetings, parties, and club projects.

French Club members were given the opportunity to view the slides of Mr. Ken Clark, listen to Waverly students discuss a trip to France sponsored by the Foreign Language League, and be entertained by two French Canadian boys. Also available to interested students were pen pals. Twelfth Night and Initiation were two events celebrated by French Club members. Faculty advisor was Miss Ferguson.

"Feriae Veneris" was the theme of this year's Latin Club banquet. Members enjoyed eating with fingers in Roman fashion, and being served by slaves. Bake sales were held to finance a trip to Ann Arbor to attend the State Junior Classical League convention.

The class overrides Mr. Ramsay's proposal with a unanimous thumbs down vote, but being coach of the debate-forensic program gives him priority.

With the Lights Dimmed, Spirits Were Raised in the Musical

The spirits were raised high this year when the concert choir presented "HIGH SPIRITS." This musical took place in Charles Condomine's (Dave Hackney) home, where he and his wife (Kathy Hackney) are waiting for Dr. and Mrs. Bradman (Dave Williams and Kathy Merrill) to arrive. After dinner the eccentric medium, Madame Arcati (Nadia Tisheff), comes to conduct a seance. The seance was arranged by Mr. Consomine so that he could get information on his latest book.

During the seance Elvira, (Stephanie Tisheff) Mr. Condomine's first wife, appears from the dead. This in itself was a problem for Mr. Condomine and to try to explain it to Ruth was impossible. Then the competition between Ruth and Elvira was unbearable. Elvira was trying to get Charles killed so that he could pass over where she was. In this process Edith (Bonnie Kowatch) the Condomines maid, gets a severe bump on the head and Charles falls off the roof of a restaurant, but is not killed unfortunately. With all of Elvira's attempts at killing Charles, Ruth is killed. Now they are both trying to get him passed over. Charles is now a bit overjoyed and decides to take a trip and Madame Arcati arrives to bid him good-bye. They drink a toast to their success and by drinking the poisoned brandy they both pass over to Elvira's "Home Sweet Heaven." In the coffee shop with the chorus and with the soloists one could tell that their three months of practice payed off.

Introducing the Inter Circle coffee shop, Ken Waterman is getting in the, way out "High Spirits" mood, with the song "Come to Madame Arcatie's Coffee Shop."

Shying away from his first wife, Elvira (Stephanie Tisheff), Charles Condomine (Dave Hackney) is still in doubt that she returned after the seance.

After this seance to bring back the spirits of the dead, with the help of Dr. and Mrs. Bradman (Dave Williams, Kathy Merrill) Ruth and Charles Condomine (Kathy and Dave Hackney) and the medium from the Inter Circle Madame Arcati (Nadia Tisheff), the trouble begins.

The lights blacked out to Madame Arcati (Nadia Tisheff) after she conducted a seance to bring back the spirits of those who have "Passed Over."

Isn't this foolish for a high school student? No! Marry Carpenter is bicycling down the aisles of Eastern's auditorium in "High Spirits."

"Maybe your tongue isn't coated, Charles (Dave Hackney), but your breath could use a mouthwash," Says Ruth (Kathy Hackney).

After three months of long hard practicing, the beatniks of Madame Arcatie's coffee shop (the Inter Circle) take a quick breather while the curtain is closed between scenes. During the fast pace of the show they are entitled to a short rest.

Eastern's majorettes, Penny Backer and Cheryl Manina are rehearsing for the big game. Each is an accomplished baton twirler and member of the band. Look great, don't they?

Drum Major and Golden Girls Lead the 1966 Quaker Marching Band

Backbends? No, this is Archie Willoughby, this year's drum major. He did a marvelous job of directing the band throughout the season.

Diligently practicing for the upcoming concert, is the woodwind section consisting of Ken Hendges, Gary Snider, Karen Bartholomew, Chris Nelson and Jan Trotter.

Ron McCallum and Tani Martinat pause for a minute waiting for Mr. Smith to announce the next selection to be played.

Each year the band and orchestra present two concerts. The Winter Concert was held January 18, 1966 for parents and students. Among the pieces played were "Symphony No. 2" by Giannini, "Eurythante Overture," by Von Weber. The concert ended with a selection from Sousa, "The Fairest of the Fair." During May came the Spring Concert, with such numbers as "Bugler's Holiday" and "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral."

Several of the band and orchestra members participated in the Solo and Ensemble Festival; a few will progress to the state finals. Through their diligent work in their various money-making projects, enough money was raised to provide the band with new uniforms.

Skipping? No! The band is just practicing for half-time performances they will do at seven football games.

Eastern's 1965 track team got off to a roaring start. They posted four wins out of their first four meets. The Quaker trackmen then fell victim to four tougher opponents as they lost their last four meets to round off the season. The runners came in second at the Michigan State Relays, third at the Kalamazoo Relays, and fourth at the Central Michigan Relays.

Darryl Burt set a new record for the mile of 4:24, and Barry Stevens set a record for the 440 yard run of 51.7 seconds. Special awards went to Roger Burgess, most improved; Barry Stevens, most valuable; and Robert Bowers, most promising.

Some of the harder working seniors included Roger Burgess, Ed Bently, Ron Harke, Andon Bogoncheff, and Ron Zalweski. Productive juniors were Bob Bowers, Bob Pancost, Ward Hull, Jeff Hath, Randy Pearson, and John Bayse. Promising stars from the sophomores included Chandler Blake, Terry Puffer, Gary Mulnix, Roland Coon, Jeff Fritz, and Bob Potter. The 1965 manager was Paul Leonard.

Baseball Filled with Tense, Exciting Moments, Often Unnoticed

Quaker ace Dave Zuziak grimaces in a supreme effort to put another strike past the batter and advance the Quaker cause.

The swing of the bat, the flash of the runner and the rising dust after a perfectly executed slide—all of these make up the game of baseball.

The 1965 Lansing Eastern Quakers' baseball team found Quakers depending on the untested juniors to handle the majority of the load. The pitching will be dependent on the arms of four juniors Dave Zuziak, Jim Stringham, Brad Thomison and Phil George. The infielding duties fall to a crew of seniors and juniors: Ray Martinez, Mike Converse, Joe Villarreal, Bob Hodges and Eric Robinson. Handling the outfield for the Quakers are Jeff Ashley, Mike Ramsey, Ron Stearns and catching for the Eastern nine are Frank Bessette and Bob Wisch.

Out or Safe? You call it as first baseman Bob Hodges attempts to slide home and add one more run to the Eastern scoreboard. Bob, along with being the Quaker first baseman, is also the leader in the batting average department.

Last season's tennis team, lacking experience, finished with a record of four wins-thirteen losses. Yet their gain of valuable playing experience in those matches and the installation of a new coach, Mr. Howard seems to promise an improvement in their record this year.

Players receiving awards were Garry Myers, most valuable; Don Edwards, most improved; and Dave Love, most loyal. Varsity letter winners were Rick Hartman, Garry Myers, Jim Yanz, Jerry Yanz, Mark Fellows, and Jani Auzins.

Still looking concerned Dave Feher, sinks an extremely difficult putt.

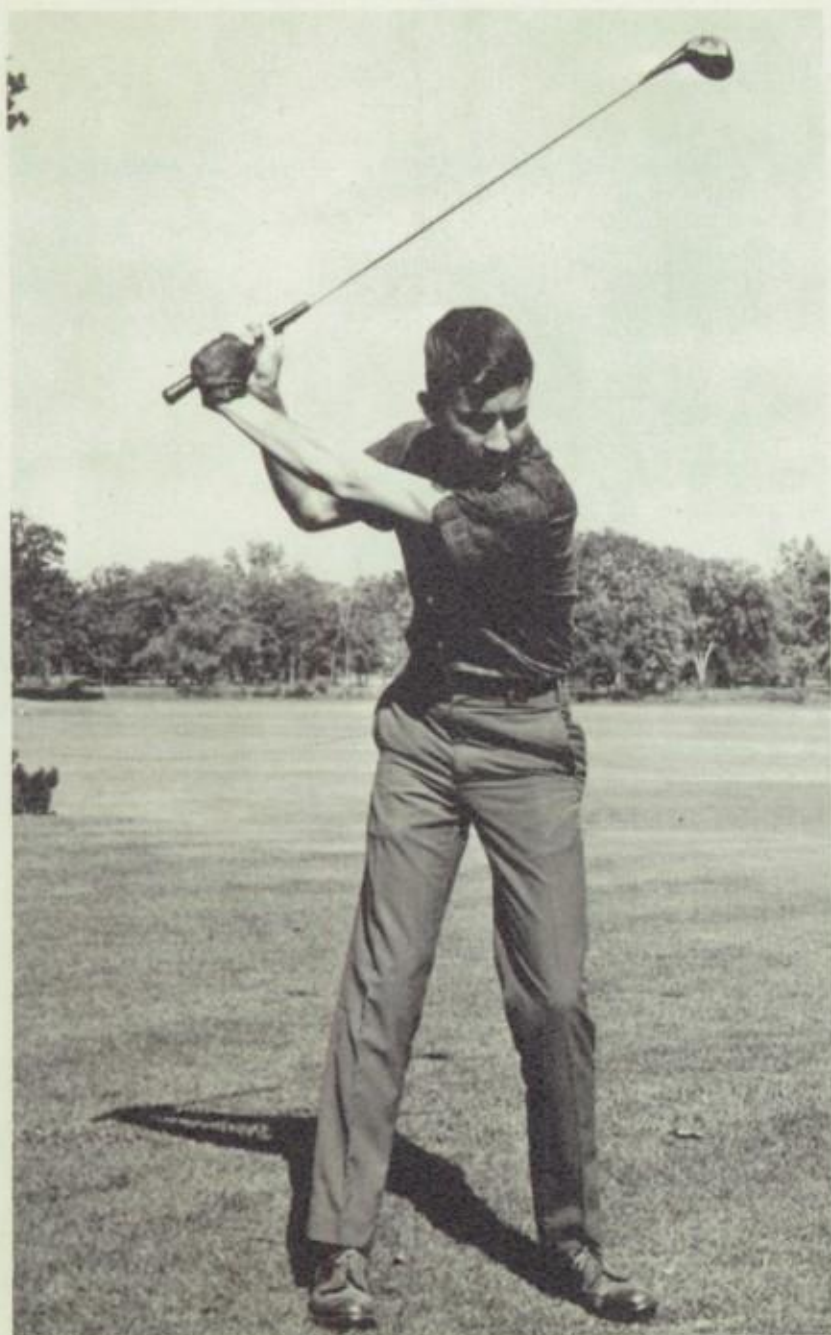

To a golfer no thrill is more invigorating than the "thwack" of a golf club against the ball and its flight as it cuts through the air over the middle of the fairway and lands 175 yards from the tee.

Although our golf team did not have an outstanding season this year and five varsity members were lost through the 1965 graduation, with returning lettermen and sophomores Coach Howard Cook can look hopefully toward next year. Eastern's golfers took third in the city meet held at Grosbeck Golf Course and they placed thirteenth at the regional meet. The player with the low season's average was Dave Feyer while the low season's individual was Dennis Reed.

Bang goes the starters gun and the runners are away with a burst of speed, two miles later the race will end. But first our Quakers will run up and down hills, through woods and up cliffs all of these are faced by the Eastern harriers.

The Quaker Harriers under the direction of Coach Townsend ended the 1965 season with a record of six wins and four loses in dual meets. Along with this fine record the Quakers placed second in the Six A league meet, sixth in the Eaton Rapids Invitational and tied for third place in the city meet. The season came to a climax at the annual cross country banquet where the letters were given and special awards presented to three team members Ron Ludwig, Most Outstanding; Keith Lucas, Most Valuable; and Chris Marin, Most Loyal.

Spirit, Desire, and "Go Big Blue" Lead Quaker Gridders

It is said that sports resemble life in many ways this old axiom held true for the Quaker gridders this fall as they fell short by the smallest of margins, as in life.

Starting the season on a great victory over East Lansing, the first in Quaker history, the Eastern gridders were ranked fourth in the state polls. Moving on the Quakers ran over Waverly only to lose to Everett in the closing minutes. The Quakers then went on to face second ranked Battle Creek falling by three points on a rain drenched field. Hitting the victory trail the Quakers easily romped over Jackson, but then fell to Ann Arbor in the last seconds of the game. The Quakers then went on to finish the season with the only three possibilities offered by football a win, a tie and a loss.

After their season the Quakers held their annual banquet where the awards were presented, the awards were Most Valuable and Hardest Tackler; Co-Captain Tom Dines, Best Lineman; Jack McNutt, Best Blockers; Lee Pratt and Rick Wilburn, Loyalty Award; Kim Eddie and a Special Growler Award Ward Hull.

Smiles on their coach's faces are something all players like to see and assistant coach Bill Allen, head coach Bob Dingman, assistant coaches Rodger May, Dick Barker and Richard Flynn have a right to smile for the fine 1965 football season.

Teamwork, spirit, and the agony of frustrating defeats were all a part of Eastern's 1966 basketball season. The team worked conscientiously, trying to salvage a winning season. At times the Quaker cagers looked like a real good team, but not good enough.

Among the leading scorers were Dave Zuziak, 230 points; Mark Schaffer, 116 points; Ron Stearns, 114 points; and Steve Emfinger, 95 points. Emfinger lead in rebounds with 97, and Schaffer made the most assists with 44.

The 6A League, being the strongest league in the state, overcame the Quaker Five again this year. Eastern's basketball team lengthened their league losing streak to 21.

Coach Howard Cook is now looking to the future. Returning next year will be juniors Bob Watson, Charles Bauman, Larry Wonacott, Dave Zdybel, Ron Stearns, and Mike Welch. Lone sophomore who made the team this year was Jeff Welcher. The 1966 managers were James Jackson, and Bill Silvey.

Pep, Poise, Perseverance Is an Eastern Cheerleader

Who was the peppiest and most devoted group of supporters in the school? It was our cheerleading squad of 1965 and 1966. Our cheerleaders cheered at all of our athletic events and pep assemblies. A great deal of credit for the success of our teams can be given to our cheerleaders. Always rousing school spirit, never missing a game, never losing hope, are qualities that describe Eastern's Cheerleaders.

The boys and girls practiced many long hours after school to learn new and old cheers as well as many formations. This diligent effort on their part made Eastern spark with enthusiasm and gleam with hope. Conducting cheers throughout the year were seniors Roberta Davidson, Linda Reniger, Jeanne Stanek, Cis Vincent, Genie Watson, Ken McCaslin, Ron Daly, Jim Trowbridge, Ron Thedford, and junior Jackie Tatosian.

This years volleyball all city tournament was held at Everett High School. Each school played two out of three games which were eight minutes in length. The Sophomore and Junior championships went to our Eastern girls. They had no losses to Sexton or Everett. Our Senior girls were unable to pull a championship, but the games were close.

Hard work and devotion to their sport helps make champions. Miss Anderson spent much of her time showing the girls valuable techniques, always remembering the meaning of good sportsmanship. The last three weeks before the contests, the girls could be found in the gym each night, and almost every noon hour. Many of them spent their Saturdays at school practicing. Eastern is very proud of these girls, they have brought distinction and recognition to their high school.

Miss Anderson shows the proper skill of hitting the ball over the net. Her timeless coaching has proven successful this year for our volleyball teams.

Future Bright for Eastern's Tankmen, Practice Produces Speed

Eastern has many reasons to be proud of the 1965-1966 swimming team. Swimming ranks as one of the most arduous sports, and draws heavily on the individual, as well as the team effort. Perhaps more than any other sport, swimming is a test of character and desire as much as natural athletic prowess. The members of the varsity and "j.v." teams represented Eastern at 13 meets, and put in seemingly endless hours of unheralded but vital practice. This was the first year that Mr. Howard has coached the swimmers, and he produced the first winning season for the team in five years. Swimmers found their efforts rewarded in numerous ways: the joy after weeks of practice in finally cutting that vital minute off "your time," the unexpected but well earned "upset victory" over Jackson Parkside, and many others. With the returning of junior and sophomore team members, Coach Howard feels he can look forward to many more future victories.

Proving swimming is a team effort as much as individual performance, Ron Jones springs into the water in the 200 yard medley relay.

After the Jackson Parkside victory Coach Howard takes a swim himself at the request of jubilant Eastern swimmers.

Steve Denny grabs a quick breath in the grueling 400 yard freestyle event. Desire, training, and pace are all important in this race.

Hurling themselves to the water, Eric Lang and Ron Jones get off to good starts in the 100 yard butterfly. The butterfly is a difficult event and always provides good competition.

Straining every muscle to the utmost in an effort to gain the important "fast start," Eastern's Jim Porter and Greg Jarboe begin the 200 yard individual medley. A good dive in these events may often decide the outcome before all the contestants have hit the water.

Jumping back cautiously is Joe Villereal who knows that in wrestling you must be sly.

quick, and observant. These points helped Joe pin his man.

Although the losses totaled more than the wins, the 1966 wrestling team displayed the outstanding qualities of a winning team. The season got off to a slow start, but the squad improved toward the end. The most outstanding wrestler was Mike Bentley, Eastern's only 1966 State Champion.

Outstanding seniors on the team included Mike Bentley, Scott Grenfell, Joe Villarreal, Zeke Cash, and Harry Gladney.

The juniors placed the most men on the 1966 Wrestling squad. Leading the juniors were Pat Clark, John Clark, Dick Winsett, Gilbert Boettcher, Tom Redburn, Dave Gilbert, and Glenn Black.

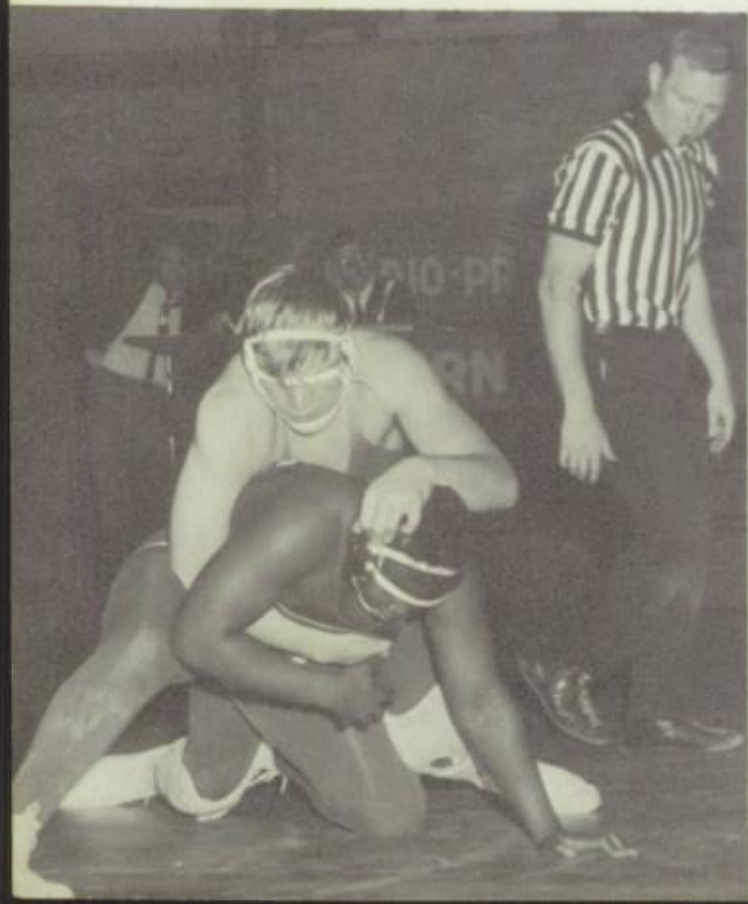

The sophomores, who always make the future look bright, placed the fewest men on the team. Some of the most promising sophomores were Ross Rappaport, Bob Hollern, Bill McCall, Kevin Hogan, and Jan Bernett.

Pat Clark, who seems to be slipping, is really only pulling his man to the mat so that he can administer a pin.

The referee watches patiently, as Gilbert Boettcher gets the jump on a would be aggressor.

Pinning an opponent isn't really as easy as it looks, but poise, skill, and experience help

Energetic Seniors Participate In Decorating Of Class Float

Thanks to the use of Jan Shelberg's garage, decoration of the Senior Class float commences with help of Kathy Braun, Yolanda Bruder, Marsha Stachwick, Diane Scherer, Sharon Arthur, Sue Gervais, Sherrie Simon, and Dick Lathrop.

With a heave-ho Bob Maiers sets the base of the cannon for the float in place. Knowing that a cannon of this size easily weighs 1800 pounds, the magnificence of his feat is appreciated by all.

Casual Day Brings Sweat Shirts, Levis, and Sneakers

Shoes! Shoes! Everywhere shoes! After a weary day, heels came off as girls' feet became tired.

No tired feet here! Tennis shoes and sandals offer much comfort to feet even at the end of a long day.

Casually Craig Tyler and Roberta Davidson joke about their old school clothes while other cooky attired seniors look on.

Dress-Up Day showed a change for Roberta Davidson and Craig Tyler as they still joked, but in a more formal fashion.

Underclass

Underclass . . . part of the school's main artery . . . a class made of two segments . . . the sophomores . . . thrilled with the excitement of entering Eastern . . . the unsupervised noon hours, the vast variety of clubs, and the challenge of high school . . . and the juniors . . . accustomed to the routine of a Quaker's life . . . the morning stroll through the halls, cutting in the lunch line, and catching up on the latest gossip between classes . . . the passing days brought many new experiences . . . class elections, "Cage 'Em," "Alpine Splendor," and the Powder Puff football game . . . the sophomores and juniors were a very lively group . . . for they, they were the underclass . . .

"Mine is the best." Mr. Heywood, sophomore class advisor, is in the midst of chaos as the class officers torment him with several of their plans for a class project.

We, the members of the 1966 LANTERN STAFF, have tried to portray the 1965-66 school year in the most accurate way possible. In doing this, we asked the help and patience of many persons. We owe our gratitude to Mr. Potter, who always had faith in us; Mr. Simpson, who made our financing possible; LeClear Studios, who took countless pictures; and Modern Yearbook, who always gave us encouragement during our dark hours.

We hope that the 1966 LANTERN will fix the past and assure accurate recall of moments that would normally blur with time.

Hope you have fun at Eastern.
You should take up more art.
Val

Senore,
I will always remember you so don't forget me. (if you can)
Rose Tracha
(684)

Senore, (Senore!)
 Have a wonderful year next year! Let those grades up so you can go to college too! I'm not gonna ask you to remember
 me cause I know you will. And I'll remember you the same way!

I love always,
 Joan Chapman
 Class of 68!!

Senore,
 Good Luck in the future. I'm sorry I don't know you very well but it was fun sitting with you at lunch,
 even though you're a dinky sophomore. But you have nothing to worry about; next year you'll be a junior looking down on the new sophomores (ie of class of '69."
